INTRODUCTION

WHAT READERS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THIS WORK

CONSIDERATIONS WHEN USING THIS WORK:

1. There WILL be errors. Some are mine, some are not.
2. Family records will NOT be complete, for various reasons.
3. African-American records are more scarce than white records.
4. Dates may vary, sometimes very widely. I can not determine which one is correct but instead I will include all references.
5. Names can even vary, with some people using nicknames, or a middle name, when other names are considered "official." Again, I can not determine which one is correct.
6. There are virtually NO birth or death records prior to 1911 in Kentucky. There were several weak attempts prior to that, but very few events were documented.
7. There are NO LEGAL Black marriages prior to 1866.

8. PLEASE use this, share this, add to this, make it more complete and accurate. But PLEASE give me credit for having written it in the first place.

WHY?

I've been asked why a white man from Maine has become so interested in African American history and records in central Kentucky. Well, the answer is quite simple. I enjoy doing family history research, and it doesn't matter WHAT families I work on. When I moved to Boyle County, I found that much of the work for white families was already done, so naturally I turned to African American records, of which nearly nothing was known.

Gathering and assembling these family records, and writing a history of African Americans in Danville has become my passion. I don't EVER want a young Black boy or girl in Boyle County to be able to say, I can't find out anything about my family or my history.

WHAT READERS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT MY SOURCES

CENSUS RECORDS:

When census records are used to extrapolate birth dates, the reader should assume that the date is an approximation, not exact. Because given ages often change from census to census, sometimes quite dramatically, I have listed all given ages in chronological order. In 1850, 1860, and 1870 Census records, relationship to head is not given; children are assumed only, they may be nieces or nephews, or totally unrelated to the head of household.

Also, it is important to note that if African-Americans are listed by name in census records prior to 1870, they were FREE, not slaves. Their numbers are few, but it is important that they be recorded and memorialized. In 1860, Boyle County had more free blacks than any county in the Commonwealth except Jefferson, Fayette, and Kenton.

If possible, names have been arranged into logical family groups, but in some cases, people are recorded in the original order. In cases where the head of family is female, either she was not married, her husband was away, or she may have been a widow. Early census records (1850-1870) do not give marital status.

I have listed families of which I know more than one generation first, alphabetically by the name of the earliest ancestor; the different generations are separated by a line of dashes. Otherwise, families are listed alphabetically by the father's or husband's name, or by the wife's name if the husband is not known.

Dates for the various census years are, 1850-1900, June 1; 1910, April 15; 1920, January 1; 1930-1950, April 1. This is important because children under a year old were listed as, for example, 6/12, or 6 months.

Also, due to the handwriting of the census takers, it is sometimes unclear whether the birth month is Jan or Jun, Mar or May. The reader should not assume that births in these months are correct.

MARRIAGE RECORDS:

Boyle County marriage records citing Book 1C were the "Colored" Declarations of Marriage; couples who had lived together as man and wife before marriage became legal for slaves, simply declared that they had been together a certain length of time, and were issued a "Declaration of Marriage" – in effect, a marriage certificate. Marriage records citing other books are legal marriage certificates.

African-American Genealogies of Boyle County, Kentucky, P 7

Lincoln County marriage declarations are in Book 12, the explanation being the same. Other "colored" marriages are in various other books, as opposed to being grouped together in one series, as in Boyle County.

When marriages are listed beginning with "One" and a name ("One Jerry CALDWELL", for instance), it is usually because there is no proof that the person listed is in fact the one on the marriage record; however, there is a great possibility. If I cannot identify the spouse's family, I have placed those "orphan" marriages at the end of the family name section, unless there is only one record, in which case it is listed at the end of this file.

Marriage references almost always listed with the marrying couple, and in the interest of space I am gradually removing these references from the "SOURCE" section.

Sometimes, when the maiden name of the mother is unclear, I may have conflated it with the name of a second husband. Thus, "Robert and Mary (SMITH) JONES" might actually be Robert JONES and Mary (JONES) SMITH, with Smith being her second husband. In many cases, the record requires the maiden name of the mother, but even if her surname is different from the father's, I have not always assumed they were, or ever had been, married. So when I list parents as "John SMITH and Mary JONES I have not assumed anything.

Finally, when dates for both the intention and the actual marriage are given, or are different, I have included both. If there is only one date, the reader may assume that the dates of the intention and marriage were the same, or that the intention was not recorded separately.

BIRTH and DEATH CERTIFICATES:

Where I show exact birth information, the date is usually taken from the Kentucky Vital Records index. I am gradually adding this information to individual entries, and "(BC)" after the person's birth year.

Death certificates, particularly the early ones from about 1911 to the 1930s often do not give parentage or birth dates (approximate ages may be listed), and even place of burial is often vague. In places, I am abbreviating these references as "(DC)", but also at the end of the family listing, with the person's name and death year.

Funeral programs, abbreviated as "(FP)", have been a major source of information for many families; these run from the late 1960s to about 2014, with the majority being in the 1980-2000 time period. But again, the accuracy is only as good as the information the family provided to the funeral director.

MILITARY RECORDS:

Many African-Americans in this area enlisted in the US Army at Camp Nelson in 1864 and 1865; some records of those enlistments are found under United States Colored Troops Muster and Descriptive Roll for Kentucky the 7th, 8th and 9th Districts, (cited as USCT Muster) which lists men in the 7th, 8th and 9th Congressional Districts who enlisted in 1864 and 1865. Boyle and Lincoln Counties were in the 7th District, and comprise pages 35 through 48 of the original records. When "in text" citations are made, the numbers signify the page and the line number where the record was made. If I can identify the man and his family, I have included the enlistments there. If not, they are listed at the end of the family section.

World War I and World War II draft registrations have been included here. Those for WW1 include all men from Boyle Co who registered in the three registrations between June 1917 and September 1918. Those for WW2 are only the "Old Man" registrations in April 1942 from numerous northern states, as the Kentucky records apparently have been destroyed. If I can identify the man and his family, I have included these registrations there. If not, they are listed at the end of the family section.

GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS:

All dates are subject to error, and the longer the time between the event and the record, the more likelihood there is of error. Often, people simply did not know how old they were or when they, or family members, were born, which is why birth dates from census records sometimes vary, and sometimes quite widely.

If there is good reason to believe that particular people were connected, I have assumed that connection, but noted "probably" or "possibly" along with the connection. This is NOT to be taken as fact until proven with more evidence.

Even family names were spelled in various ways. If I believe the families were related, I have either noted "and vars" after the name, or have added parentheses to indicate different spellings – FAULKNOOR, and vars, or HARLAN(D), for example. In numerous cases, I have assumed a multiple marriage. If, for example, a woman 25 years old is married to a man of 45, and a child of 15 is in the family; it's unlikely that she is the mother of that child.

When I only have individual marriage or death records, with no other family records for that surname, I have placed those records at the end of this work under "Misc. Marriage Records" and "Misc. Death Records."

Finally, any entries that are highlighted in yellow mean that those entries require more work on my part. As I have the time, I will correct these.

Adams, Kenneth Wayne, born Danville 21 Dec 1973, died 21 Apr 2023; obit from Stith Funeral Home reads in part: "Kenneth Wayne Adams, son of Louisia Adams and Robert (Rose) Frye, was born in Danville, KY on December 21, 1973. Kenneth transitioned suddenly on Friday, April 21, 2023, after a short illness. Kenneth was a firm believer in Christ. He was a 1991 graduate of Danville High School and later The University of Kentucky briefly. Kenneth worked as a Service Technician for Don Jacobs Honda Service for the past 27 ½ years. "Kenny" as he was affectionately known, was called Mr. ESPN by some of his friends because there wasn't a sports stat he didn't know, whether it be football, basketball, baseball, track field, golf, etc. Kenny was a big fan of the University of Kentucky, Florida State (football), and Dallas Cowboys and often traveled to their games. Kenny enjoyed spending his free time at Malibu Pub and Grill and highly recommended their wings. He and his family enjoyed many "family nights" at Comedy Off Broadway in Lexington, KY. Kenny never met a stranger and would talk to every person in the room. Everyone he met loved him.

Surviving Kenny are his loving parents; his brother Jalen Daugherty, Danville, KY; sisters Bridget Frye, Danville, KY, Ashley Frye, Lancaster, KY, and stepsister Emisha Coulter; three aunts, Andrea Martin, Janice (Cedric) Leavell, and Valerie Frye; two uncles, Charles (Ann) Farley and Louis Adams Jr. Kenny also had a special friend Ginger Weissinger, nieces Nautik, MaCee, and Raelynn, as well as numerous cousins and friends."

ATKINS, Reuben, born 1812 (USCI Enlistment) or KY 1805 (1880C), parents born KY, gardener; mar Julia _____, born 1809, parents born KY. They lived same house as George and Sarah (_____) DURHAM. "Judy" received a widow's pension 25 Jan 1893, for Reuben ATKINS, who served Co F, 123rd USCI. He was of Lincoln Co, 52 years old, when he enlisted at Camp Nelson 24 Sep 1864, owner listed as Ben Bosley (46:174). The Danville News, 17 Nov 1905, notes that she died "yesterday" at her home in Danville; again the story is repeated that she was a "servant" in the home of Gov. Isaac Shelby; there were some reports that she was 130 years old. In another article in the Kentucky Advocate, 22 Mar 1901, She claims she is 116 years old, and was a waiting maid to Gov. Isaac Shelby at age 7 in 1792; she had 11 children but her descendants are too many for her to remember. As of the time of the article, she was living with David Langford and his wife. Her husband was a soldier in the Federal army, and she was receiving a small pension.

Carrie Morgan spent her early years living in and attending the public schools of Momence, Illinois. She graduated from the local high school in 1898. Carrie Morgan and Eugene Adams Beatty were married October 4, 1905, in Danville, Boyle County, Kentucky. Together they owned and operated the Beatty Pressing Dry Cleaning business there. They had no children of their own but were raising Eugene's nephew Edward Monroe Beatty. Edward died from an accidental gun shot in 1927. This probably brought on a state of despondency with Eugene who the following year died from a self inflicted gun shot. She took over the business after her husband's death. On 11 Apr 1931, she suffered a broken leg when a driver ran a red light at Third and walnut streets (Messenger, 11 Apr 1931). In the city directory of 1951 she is listed as being a widow living in Danville, Kentucky. Her Social Security says she died in March 1964, unknown. 1940C says Carrie was high school grad, and owned res worth $700 at 440 Russell St 1940C; lodger Emma L (_____) BONTA, born 1878, married but spouse absent. His World War I draft registration card, 17 June 1917, shows he was living in Lockland, OH, an employee of CHD Railroad at registration. He was single and listed an exemption because he was the support of his mother.

He was inducted 1 Jul 1918. He served in the 158th Dep Brig to 26 Aug 1918, Co I 813th Pioneer Infantry to 29 Sep 1918, and Co E 813th Pioneer Infantry to his discharge, 23 July 1919. The 813th was organized August 1918 at Camp Sherman, OH, and went overseas in September, returning in July, and demobilizing at Camp Dix, NJ.

On the ship passenger list for the USS Freedom, sailing from Brest, France 2 July 1919, his mother is listed as Mrs. Marie Hunn of 101 Stanford Ave, Danville. He served overseas from 15 Sep 1918 to 16 Jul 1919.

In the 1920 Census at 101 McGrorty Ave, Mrs. Maria Hunn, 69, widow, is listed living with Charles Brown, 26, coal company teamster, and his wife Alice, 23. Charles's father was born in Tennessee. In the 1940 Census of Ward 1, Danville, he is listed at 123 East Main, as 50 years old, widowed, a baker, with Emma (Owsley) Hayden, 49, widow, listed as a private home cook.

During World War II, his draft registration card, dated 27 April 1942, notes that he resided at 110 East Main St, Danville, that he was 47 years old, had been born in Stanford 3 March 1895, the person who would know his address was Mrs. Emma Hayden, 110 East Main St, and that he worked at Darnell General Hospital, in Danville. He is described as being 5'3", 135 lbs, brown eyes, Black hair, and dark brown complexion, with scars on his left forearm.

He died Tuesday, 10 July 1973, at the home of Mrs. Sonora Jones in Danville, and was buried in the Lebanon National Cemetery. SOURCE: 1940C, Boyle Co, MD6, Danville, ED11-13, E of So 2nd, Wilderness Rd, Alta, p05B

Brumfield, Roscoe, res 467 Fackler, age 29, born 1887, mo 10, day 29, birthplace Mitchellsburg, occup Mortar mixer, employer A W Walker, Danville, dependents wife and child, married, signed form, height medium, build stout, eyes Blk, hair Blk, registered 5 Jun 1917 (WW1 Draft Reg).

He was a trainer for the Centre College Colonels, and when Centre's Red Roberts moved to Ashland in 1927, Brumfield followed, and coached the Armco pro football team there. Sadly, he was hit by an automobile on 4 Jun 1938 in Ashland.

In the photo below, he is pictured doing the "Cake Walk" at the famous Centre-Harvard Football Game on 29 October 1921. After the game was over (C6H0) he stayed to put on a show in the stadium, and "captured the hearts of everyone in the stands on the eventful day." (A-M, 6 Jan 1938)

From Our Standard Sure, Centre College Since 1819 by C. Thomas Hardin, ed. And Bob Hill, writer.

He wore a tall silk hat and yellow vest and danced the cakewalk to entertain the crowds. Breckinridge was more important to Centre's success than most people realized, according to a senior seminar paper by 1976 Centre graduate Valarie H. Ziegler:

"In those days, coaches were forbidden to send in plays from the sidelines. [Coach] Roscoe used to sit on the sidelines on a bucket which had C-E-N-T-R-E spelled in large letters around it. Moran would tell Roscoe which play he wished the team to run, and Roscoe, the 'communications expert extraordinary', would rotate the bucket until the letter signifying that play was facing the field with the players could see it."

The October 31, 1921 issue of the Harvard Crimson wrote "... just about three shades darker than any other colored man in Greater Boston, he looked like a Kentucky tobacco ad. His nimbleness in getting off and on the gridiron belied his years."

Gabriel Burdett has just ended a most valuable service on the subject of temperance, in Garrard county. They have had a county election. Prohibition did not succeed, but will, doubtless, in the next effort. White men who are good judges told me no man in the county spoke with such power and effect as Bro. Burdett did, to immense audiences, white and colored. White men, may of the best men in the county, opened to him the Court House and their churches and welcomed him to their tables."

CELEBRATED 90TH BIRTHDAY

On January the twenty-fifth, at his home on Duncan's Hill, Danville, Ky. Julius Brumfield Caldwell, of "Ye old time days of Slavery," celebrated his ninetieth birthday. He is a remarkably preserved man, and walks with a springing step, and is possessed of a really alert mind. He was the property of the late W. Logan and Ellen Brumfield Caldwell, of this county, and he has always been a most worthy example of his race, not only as a loyal servant, but a truly Christian gentleman, who never betrayed a trust. No military aide ever points to his commission with greater pride than did "Uncle Julius" (as he is called by his "white folks") to the fact that it was his commission, as a boy, to "Follow his young Mistis Ellen" on a separate mount, as she daily rode back and forth to school. And later on, to quote his own words, "When time came for Miss Ellen to have beaus, and they started ridin' 'Ole Miss al'ays put me on another horse, saying, 'now Julius, you are to keep just in sight of that couple,' and I shore did."

An interview with this old servant reveals to you the genuine affection he felt for the Caldwell family, and for this present generation of them. His reminiscent moods have sent many a listener away with a different view point of slavery conditions, and more than one, especially from the North and East, have been heard to say "To have really seen and talked with this old time slave is worth my trip to Kentucky."

Although Julius is ninety years old he comes daily, (weather permitting) to do the chores at the home of his "Young Misses," Mrs. Ella Caldwell Palmer, North Fourth street, a long, long walk from his home. Often he assured her that he never forgets to pray for every member of her family, by name. Here's to you Uncle Julius, that your bow may long abide in strength and be a benediction to your friends of both colors! Mrs. R.

He ran for, and was elected to, the Danville City Commission in 1977, but although he was defeated in the 1979 elections, he was elected once again in 1981. In 1988 he was honored by the NAACP during its Freedom Fund banquet "for an impressive list of accomplishments tattaied in his efforts to champion the cause of equality and civil rights for all. The article goes on to note that he served as chairman of the Batewood Swimming Pool Committee, championed the annexation of the Duncan Hill area to the city, and fought to get water service to that area. As early as 1952. he wrote a letter to the Advocate-Messenger, noting that the manager of the Starlite Theatre was going to have a special show of the Walcott-Marciano fight for colored people, and that while Cohen appreciated the gesture, he wondered if African-Americans are good enough to attend a special showing, why are they not good enough to attend the regular showing? "We are living in a time when we are either equal or not. But if this is not the time, let us hope that the time will come when we can go to a theatre of our choice, or any place!" He was a trustee of the First Baptist Church, a member of the Royal Arch Knights Templar; and a trustee of the Ephraim McDowell Memorial Hospital. He was active in the United Way, Boy Scouts, and the Kentucky Club. He was employed for many years as the foreman of the pressroom at the Advocate-Messenger, and his wife, Marjorie Ellen Cohen, was employed for 35 years at Smith-Jackson Funeral Home. Sophia (PENMAN) CRAIG's obit in the Advocate-Messenger, 17 Sep 1953, p5, reads: Mrs. Sophia P. Craig Succumbs In Hospital. Mrs. Sophia P. Craig, widely-known local resident, who has been closely affiliated with the church, civic and political life of her community until she became seriously ill and practically confined to her home about a year ago, died at 12:30 o'clock this morning, as the result of a heart attack. She had suffered several previous heart attacks, had been hospitalized at various times, and died in Ephraim McDowell Memorial hospital where she had been a patient for the past three weeks. Mrs. Craig was at one time an operator on "The Torch-Light", a newspaper owned by the Rev. J. Wood, former Baptist minister, in Danville. One of the oldest teachers in Boyle County, having taught for over 50 years, Mrs. Craig was on retirement, after having taught in the schools of Danville, Junction City, Parksville, Stony Point, Needmore, and others in this area, and at Vineyard in Jessamine county and elsewhere. She was a member of Celestine Chapter No.9, Order of the Eastern Star, a past worthy matron, she had also held every office in that lodge and had served I State offices of the same organization. She was a resident of 129 East Green street and a member of First Baptist Church, where she had been a number of years and had organized the Ella B. Wood Bible class. At her death, she was a member of the local Federation of Women's Clubs in which she had also held office. Active in politics and a staunch member of the GOP, Mrs. Craig was frequently referred to as "Miss Republican", a title of which she was proud. Mrs. Craig served for many years as correspondent for the Negro community on The Advocate Messenger, a post she also held at the time of her death. Nearest relatives are a sister, Mrs. Lou Owsley, Tuskegee Institute, Ala.; four nieces, Mrs. Ethel Calamese, Cincinnati; Mrs. Margaret Ford, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Louise Sims, Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Louise Barton, a teacher in Alcorn College, Mississippi, and one great-niece. The body was removed to Smith-Jackson funeral home. Funeral and burial arrangements were incomplete today, pending the arrival of the sister. Interment will be in Hilldale cemetery by the side of the deceased s husband, George P. Craig.

The Advocate-Messenger, 25 May 1921, noted "COLORED WOMAN RECEIVES GOOD APPOINTMENT. Mrs. Sophia Craig, teacher at Stony Point, three miles from Danville on the Lexington pike, has received an appointment of a six weeks' course in Tuskegee Institute, the great colored school founded in Alabama by Booker Washington. The appointment was made by Dr. F. C. Burton, of Frankfort, State Supervisor of Rural Schools. Mrs. Craig will leave June 2 and will take a course in the methods of teaching. The appointment includes all expense except board. Tuskegee opens June 6th."

Davis is listed as one of those who assisted in fencing and improving Hilldale Cemetery (Advocate 23 Jun 1876, p3). He was a delegate to the District Republican Conv ention held in Louisville in April 1884 (Advocate 11 Apr 1884 p5). The Advocate in 1888 calls him "one among the best-known of our colored people, when he received a letter of dismission from th Green Street Colored Baptist Church, to join the Junction City Baptist Church (Advocate, 21 Dec 1888, p5). In Feb 1890, his name was suggested as a candidate for town council representing the First Ward, in a meeting at the rink on Walnut St, between First and Second. (Advocate 28 Feb 1890 p5). In November 1908, a commissioner's sale of his property took place. He owned property on the east side of South Second Street running near the Theological Seminary, sold to him by Eliza A Head, Deed Book 13 p4.

DORAM

I am indebted to Tai Doram for much of this information.

A DORAM (possibly Dennis, Native American), mar Danville (though no record found) Lydia BARBEE, born 1768. She may have been the daughter of Gen. Thomas Barbee, of Danville, as the family had close connections for many years. According to Tai Doram, Lidia and Dennis ran the Barbee and the Indian Queen Taverns in Danville which were operated by General Thomas Barbee. In 1802, Lidia and Dennis Doram moved to Claibourne, Tennessee. Little is known about their life there. Apparently the six older children remained in Kentucky with Joshua Barbee at "Oakland," and Rebecca and Nellie eventually returned to Danville from Tennessee. It is not known what happened to Edward Doram. There is a Doram Cove in Tennessee but nothing further is known regarding this place.

Children, surnamed DORAM:

1—DORAM, Tom, of whom further.

2—DORAM, Alice; mar _____ MILLER, lived in TN.

3—DORAM, Eve.

4—DORAM, Jenny.

5—DORAM, Daniel, born 1794, of whom further.

6—DORAM, Dennis, born 27 Dec 1796, of whom further.

7—DORAM, Rebecca, born 1800.

8—DORAM, Nellie, born 1802, mar John VALENTINE, 4 children.

9—DORAM, Edward, born 1808, born Claibourne, TN.

A-1 DORAM, Thomas, has been documented in Early Black Movements in Kentucky, p. 36, as assisting Harriet Tubman in delivering slaves to freedom by way of the "Underground Railroad." Their movements carried them through the James Gillespie Birney Estate and Centre College. Tom Doram was Harriet Tubman's contact man in Danville. He moved later to Cincinnati.

Children:

1—DORAM, Thomas.

2—DORAM, Catherine, mentioned in her brother's will.

SOURCE: Tai Doram, Heritage Lost; but now Found!. Volume I, From 1086-The Start of the Civil War

A-5 DORAM, Daniel, brother of Dennis, will dated 17 Dec 1868; mar Polly ROBARDS, born 1800 (1860C) (Gross, p69). Brothers Daniel and Dennis Doram became lucrative business partners reminiscent of the partnership between their paternal grandfather, General Thomas Barbee, and his brother, Joshua Barbee. Daniel's Will, written in 1867, in Boyle County, Danville, Kentucky, left the bulk of his estate to Dennis.

Child:

consumption 18 Oct 1869 (Gross, p69, 1870C Mortality Sched, Boyle Co, Danville); mar Mercer Co 15 Feb 1830 (Mar Rec) Diadamia TAYLOR, born Washington Co 1810 (1850C) or 1811 (1860C). She was the daughter of Gibson TAYLOR and slave Chloe, and was granted freedom in 1814 (Gross, p61). Also living here 1860C, were Billy WILLIAMS, born 1843; Jack WILLIAMS, born 1846; John ROE, born 1846; and Julia F ROE, born 1849. During Dennis' life in both Mercer and Boyle Counties, he owned more than a thousand acres of land several town lots in Harrodsburg, Danville (four), Junction City, and small outlying communities. He owned the Doram-Sledd house, a hotel in the city of Goresburg (later renamed Junction City, Kentucky). He owned three rope hemp factories - one in Shelby City, one in Goresburg, and one in Danville on the corner of Walnut at the U.B.F. Hall. [See Richard C. Brown, The History of Danville and Boyle County, Kentucky 1774-1992.] He and his wife had thirteen children, adopted four more, and owned over 11 slaves during his lifetime. Before the Civil War, Dennis owned 300 acres of farmland, several buildings, and four lots in Danville. He also owned eight horses, thirty cattle, thirty hogs over six months old, one jennie, one bull, and one slave. When Diadaemia Taylor, her mother, and numerous siblings were sold to a family that lived in St. Louis, Missouri, Dennis Doram (when he was only seventeen) and a Mrs. Sarah Rochester sent Diadaemia's father, Gibson Taylor (a free man of color), to buy back his family for $750, after which they lived in Danville. The Taylor family was thereby emancipated on 4/11/1814, when Diadaemia was four years old. [See Mercer County Fees & Taxes, Book 20, p. 381.] Diadamia DORAM, age 63, born Washington Co 1810, had a Freedmen's Bank account out of Louisville on 17 Mar 1873, in which she listed a brother, Harrison TAYLOR, living in South America.

DORAM, Diadama, "Ordered to be recorded and certified that Diadama Doram who is present in Court, aged 42 Years, Weighs 160 pounds, Yellow Color, 5 feet 1 inch high, no particular marks, Emancipated by G Taylor a free man of Color her father who bought her from Moses Bledsoe Dec^d, recorded in the Spencer County Court Clerk's office." (Boyle Co Order Book, Vol 2, 1850, p376).

Children, presumed, though some may not be their children, born KY:

African-American Genealogies of Boyle County, Kentucky, P 319

From the Danville Advocate, 14 Dec 1903: . a most upright and law-abiding citizen, with a high sense of honor and one of whom it may truly be said, "his word is as good as his bond," and he has proven himself a trusty friend in a time of need. Uncle Gib is a practical man, and when asked what he would prefer as a gift. he promptly responded that "something in gold would be appropriate to the occasion, but anything that is useful would be equally appreciated." This news article, written by a reporter with the initials of "H.B." gives other information as follows: Gideon. J. Doram "was born in the. house where the Constitutional Convention of Kentucky assembled, and where the first Constitution was framed and adopted on April 19, 1792." Uncle Gib rolled type for The Rifle, a newspaper edited more than sixty years ago by Jas. and Sam Dismukes, and he attended the funeral of this Sam Dismukes, who was the first to be buried in Bellevue cemetery. He remembers distinctly when Danville was a mere village. and when there was only one rail road in Kentucky. and goods and merchandise was hauled through on big wagons and over dirt roads from the cities. when Main street was what is now known as Walnut, and the post-office was on that street . when Captain A. S. McGrorty [who married Rosa Bradford Barbee Yeiser, granddaughter of Rosa Barbee, John Barbee's seventh child - see Chapter 13], one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, was a boy clerk in Robt. Montgomery's drug store on the corner of Main and Second street. when there was only one cistern in Danville. when only one man in Danville used coal for fuel - this Thomas Mitchell, Cashier of the Branch Bank. when there were two tan yards in Danville, one operated by Frederick Yeiser. the other by Michael Youse and Ben Prall on the Moore place on Fourth street. This Moore place is the birth-place of Ann J. Rowe [Gib's wife], who is to play an important part on this occasion. He remembers when there were several cotton factories in operation, also several "rope and bagging" factories, one of which was operated by John Thorn. another by Dennis Doram (Gib's father) on the U.B.F. Hall lot on Walnut street, the others by Davie Bell, Robt. Montgomery, P. G. Rice, Johnathan Nichols, and Barkley and Barbee. Machinery has ruined this picturesque craft. Literally and figuratively, spinning yarn is a long drawn out process, for a rope walk is from 1,200 to 1,500 feet long, and the spinner in his work walks backward the entire length of the elongated building. In those days work of every description was done by hand; very little in the way of machinery had been introduced in "Little Britain." He says men were honest, patriotic and happy in those pioneer days and lived not all for self but for each other, for the betterment of their race and for the advancement of civilization.

BEARS BRAND OF CAIN

Octavius Doram Shot and Killed His Brother Charles

ACTED ONLY IN SELF-DEFENSE

Charles Doram Was Attacking His Brother With an Immense Knife When Latter Emptied His Revolver at Him.

Attacked with an enormous knife, Octavius Doram, shot and killed his brother Charles, yesterday in the alley in the rear of Edward Lewin's Louisville liquor house, at 2400 Larimer street. Both men are negroes. The stories of all the witnesses to the killing exonerate the fratricide. Witnesses say that he was trying to leave the place and keep away from his brother when attacked.

The shooting was the culmination of a feud of long standing. Charles Doram, the man who was killed, was about 40 years old, and had lived in Denver for twelve years or more. Two of his brothers, who came out later from Kentucky, formerly lived with Charles and his wife, but because of a quarrel they were ordered to leave, and for a year Charles has not spoken to them.

The cause of this disagreement was the violent abuse Charles heaped upon his wife, and from which the other brothers tried to protect her. Charles drank heavily, and always when in liquor vented his ill nature on his wife. Once, just three days before a child was born to them, he attacked her with a knife and cut her badly. He threatened to kill her, and always abused her violently.

Charles Doram III-Tempered.

"If he had got what he deserved he would have been in the penitentiary long ago, and I wouldn't have had to shoot him and be in this trouble," said the prisoner this morning.

Yesterday Charles Doram was drinking, as usual, and was in the bar of Lewin's saloon at Twenty-fourth and Larimer streets when Octavius entered by the rear door. Octavius, who is only 21 years old, is very moderate in his drinking. He walked into the saloon and saw his brother standing at the bar. He turned at once to go out the back way as he had come, knowing that if Charles were drinking there would be trouble if he remained. He went out, but just outside the door he was overtaken by John Perry, a well-meaning friend who had determined to make peace between the brothers. He had heard some slurring remark made by Charles, and had hurried out to stop Octavius and try to make peace.

"Say, I'm sorry to see bad blood between you and Charley," said Perry, as he stopped the younger brother. "You're both friends of mine, and I don't want to see any trouble between you."

"There's not going to be any trouble. You see me going away from here, don't you?" said Octavius. He had turned back from the bar without ordering his beer when he saw his brother, and had only stopped in a rear room to weigh himself.

"There won't be any trouble, because I keep away from him," he went on to say, "but he is always bullying me and trying to make a fuss."

Had an Open Knife.

Charles, who had started to follow his brother out, heard the last words, and ran up, declaring with an oath: "Yes, and I'll bully you some more." He drew a long knife from his overcoat pocket as he spoke. The knife had been open in his pocket. Perry stepped between the brothers to keep them apart, but Charles made a movement as if to pass around him, and Octavius drew his revolver and began shooting. He fired five times, two of the bullets striking home, and Charles fell to the ground.

The police surgeon was called and Charles was taken to the county hospital, but the surgeons there gave little hope for his recovery, and he died this morning. He had been shot in the left breast and in the neck.

Octavius, carrying the empty revolver in his hand, was arrested a few moments later by Detectives Green and Carr. He made no resistance, and merely said that he had been forced to shoot to protect himself.

"That boy comes from my old home, Danville, Ky." Said Detective Sanders this morning. "There is not a family in Kentucky that has better credit at the banks and business houses than the Dorams. They have lots of money, and they have the respect of all people, black and white. This Octavius has always been a good boy. Charley was good, too, till he got out here and got to drinking so much."

Young Doram is a plasterer and has worked for one firm for three years. He has never been in trouble before.

An obit in the Advocate-Messenger, 25 Jan 1980, p2, notes that Russell DORAM, 62, formerly of Danville, died in Washington, and that he was the son of Dr and Mrs T M DORAM.

Dr. Doram graduated from McKillup Medical School and Wasum School of Veterinarian Medicine in Chicago. Sources differ as to whether he was the first or the second Black veterinarian in the US or in Kentucky

"Dr. Doram will doubtless be quite a bit of interest to the readers of this book, from the fact that he is the first and only negro graduate to receive a diploma from a veterinary college in the United States. He was born in Danville, Ky., where his parents own valuable farm land. His father was a carpenter, and when Dr. Doram was young he worked with him at the trade. After he had finished at the public school, in 1892, he entered Eckstein Norton University at Cane Spring, Ky. While there the building was destroyed by fire. Dr. Doram then found his knowledge of the carpenter's trade of great value to him and the school, in helping to rebuild the college building. In 1896 he entered the McKillup Veterinary College at Chicago, Ill. At the close of the first year he was at the head of his class in materia medica, and the second year he led his class in pharmacy, and during his last year he was made senior instructor of his class, an honor of which he may be justly proud. In 1899, when he graduated, he came to Evanston, Ill., where he enjoys a good practice, and he is called in his profession by the best people in that very wealthy and aristocratic community. I very much hope that a few at least of the young colored men who may read this sketch may be inspired to take up the profession of veterinary medicine and surgery, for I am confident that many could succeed in different parts of the country. age 57, plasterer and cement finisher, nearest relative Scotta Doram (WW2 Draft Reg). In 1931, according to the Advocate-Messenger, 23 Jul, Octavius Doram was erecting a large dance hall near the end of Clifton Road at Lake Herrington, and he noticed "the boiling in the lake", a sign of the "Herrington Lake monster". A descendant, Tai D Doram, wrote to me that his father told him about this story. It seems that twice a year, as the river "turned", a giant catfish would surface for days or even weeks.

Child:

1—DUNCAN, Robert Todd, born Danville 12 Feb 1903, died Washington, DC 27 Feb 1998; married Gladys JACKSON.

Duncan, Todd (12 Feb. 1903-27 Feb. 1998), singer and teacher, was born Robert Todd Duncan in Danville, Kentucky, the son of John Duncan, a garage owner, and Lettie Cooper Duncan, a music teacher. Duncan's B.A. (1925) came from Butler University; his M.A. (1930) from Columbia University's Teachers College.

Duncan taught music at the University of Louisville's Municipal College for Negroes from 1926 to 1929. While working on his master's degree, he studied voice with Sara Lee, Edward Lippo, and Sidney Dietch. In 1931 Duncan took a position at Howard University in Washington, D.C., where before retiring in 1945 he became head of the public school music and professional voice departments.

Duncan's singing career blossomed after a one-night, all-African-American production of Cavalleria Rusticana at New York's Mecca Temple in 1934, the year he married Gladys Jackson. (They had one child and remained married until Duncan's death.) More than one person claimed credit for spotting the tall, commanding baritone and recommending him to George Gershwin, then casting his opera Porgy and Bess.

The story of Duncan's audition for Gershwin is legendary. The classically trained Duncan was less than flattered by being courted by a "Tin Pan Alley" composer. Miffed at having to spend money on traveling from Washington to New York (the producers of Cavalleria had left town without paying his fee), Duncan did not bring an accompanist and asked Gershwin if he was able to play. Gershwin obliged at the piano as Duncan performed his choice, "Lungi dal Caro Bene," a nineteenth-century Italian art song. Gershwin requested that Duncan sing without the sheet music so he could watch his face and after a few bars asked, "Will you be my Porgy?" With money from Gershwin, Duncan and his wife returned the next week, running the gauntlet of the Theatre Guild, which was committed to producing Gershwin's opera but favored Paul Robeson.

Duncan recalled, "I was supposed to sing three or four songs . . . I sang opera, I sang Negro spirituals, I sang German lieder, French chansons. . . . I sang an hour, an hour and a half"--no show tunes, because, he said, he didn't know any. Then George and his brother Ira Gershwin performed the score. Duncan recalled, "When he started the opening music, I said to myself: 'All this chopsticks--it sounds awful.' I looked at my wife and said quietly, 'This stinks.' . . . By the time twenty minutes or a half hour had passed I just thought I was in heaven. These beautiful melodies in this new idiom--it was something I had never heard. I just couldn't get enough of it."

Before "I Got Plenty o' Nuthin'," the composer turned to Duncan and remarked, "This is your great aria. This is going to make you famous." Duncan recalled, "I said 'Yes?' He said 'Listen hard.' He started off--ump-pah ump-pah. And I just thought 'Aria?'" Duncan would sing "I Got Plenty o' Nuthin'" and the other songs from Porgy and Bess around the world for the next forty years.

After some visits to South Carolina so that the cultivated Duncan could learn how the inhabitants of "Catfish Row" really sounded, the opera opened in New York on 10 October 1935 with Anne Brown as Bess. Although criticism was at first divided, Porgy and Bess eventually took its place as the premier American operatic work with the crippled Porgy's persona created by Duncan: dignified and open-hearted.

Duncan re-created Porgy in a California revival of the opera in 1938. Though racially stereotyped, he came to be in demand in musical theater. In 1938 Duncan played an African chief in a London production of The Sun Never Sets, a reworking of Edgar Wallace's story "Sanders of the River." That same year he received an honorary doctorate from Howard University. Duncan returned to Broadway in 1940 in the all-African-American production of the Vernon Duke-John LaTouche musical Cabin in the Sky as De Lawd's General, a dignified symbol of good fighting evil for the soul of a charming rascal. Duncan was miscast as a drummer in the 1942 film Syncopation, an attempt at jazz history.

The 1942 New York revival of Porgy and Bess, produced by Cheryl Crawford, with much of the original recitative trimmed, ran more than two years in New York and on tour. It is generally credited with cementing the opera's reputation as well as confirming Duncan's place in musical history. One critic praised his "sunnily haphazard disposition that warms the stage and radiates through the reaches of the house."

In 1944 Duncan made his concert debut in New York. He confessed to the "thrill of holding an audience even on your faintest note . . . [as] a violinist keeps his listeners silent even on the thin last stroke . . . they can hardly hear." In 1945 the New York City Opera signed Duncan to a contract, making him the first African American to be engaged by an American opera company. In his first year he sang Tonio in Pagliacci and Escamillo in Carmen. In the same year Duncan received the president of Haiti's Medal of Honor and Merit. Also in the 1940s Duncan and Brown began to tour Europe with productions of Porgy and Bess. Duncan ultimately claimed to have performed more than 2,000 times in fifty-six countries.

While on a concert tour in Australia and New Zealand in 1949, Duncan was offered the role of Stephen Kumalo, a principled black minister whose son accidentally kills a white in Johannesburg, in the musical version of Alan Paton's tale of South African apartheid, Lost in the Stars. His moving interpretation of the role--from the skepticism expressed in the lyrics of "Lost in the Stars" to ultimate reconciliation in the tragic denouement--won Duncan in 1950 Antoinette Perry (Tony) and New York Drama Critics awards. He retired from show business the following year.

In 1955, Duncan was the first to record "Unchained Melody", a popular song with music by Alex North and lyrics by Hy Zaret. The recording was made for the soundtrack of the obscure prison film Unchained, in which Duncan also played a minor character. Following Duncan's version, the song went on to become one of the most recorded songs of the 20th century.

Duncan in later years taught voice in Washington and at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. He was cited by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for his contributions to theater. The George Peabody Medal came his way in 1984. In 1985, fifty years after the premiere of Porgy and Bess, Duncan and Brown were guests at the first Metropolitan Opera production. Duncan died in Washington.

A-1 DUNN, Arthur, Sr, born Garrard Co 14 Nov 1921, died 11 Jun 2014; mar 1944 Geraldine BROWN (Photos Above), born Beckley, WV 27 Mar 1921, died Danville 29 Oct 2018, d/o Bee and Hester (FERGUSON) BROWN; Bee was a coal miner, and Hester was an elementary school teacher. Geraldine graduated from Stratton HS in 1942, and after marriage, resided with his parents on Boone's Creek Road, Lancaster. She became an early advocate for equal rights in Garrard County; for example, one of her earliest victories had to do with public school bus routes. W/hen integration came in 1964, the local school board refused to reroute the buses to accommodate African Americans children who were walking miles. She took her concerns to the Kentucky School Board Association, and the bus routes changed. Afterward, Mrs. Dunn remained active in the schools, becoming the first African American treasurer of the PTA at Camp Dick Robinson School where her daughter was among the first integrated first grade class. In addition to serving as a founding member of the First Baptist Church Peace Walk Committee, annual sponsor of the Martin L. King, Jr. Peace Walk of Garrard County, Mrs. Dunn was also a founding member of the Garrard County Fair Board. For nearly a quarter of a century, Mrs. Dunn wrote a column for the community newspaper, the Garrard Central Record. Upbeat and positive, Mrs. Dunn's column delivered the good news of Garrard County, especially the successes of her daughter and grandkids. An avid reader herself, she often included the phrase, "Reading is your ticket to freedom." As a longtime member of the Homemaker's Club, she frequently shared gardening tips and recipes. Just last year, four of Mrs. Dunn's most popular recipes, including her famous macaroni and cheese, were featured in the paper's "Recipe Corner."
