

DANVILLE NEWSPAPER "COLORED NOTES", 1932-1942

The "Colored Notes" was a column that ran in the Lexington Herald from 1919 to 1937, in the Danville Messenger in 1932-33, and in the Danville Advocate-Messenger, from October 1942 to April 1968. It was the only outlet for social news for the African American community, as the only news the newspapers printed for Blacks was negative -- shootings, arrests, etc.

In the index that follows, the reader must consider several things:

- 1 -- Spellings are not always accurate or consistent, whether the fault of the reporter or the typesetter at the paper; I have transcribed them "as is."
- 2 -- People may well be mentioned multiple times in the same article; they are indexed once, if I notice this.
- 3 -- Sometimes, a husband is listed, or a wife. If both are inferred, I have added "M/M" to the name, meaning "Mr and Mrs".
- 4 -- Sometimes, a title is added to a man's or a couple's entry -- Rev, Pvt, Prof, etc.
- 5 -- First names are not always given; I have indicated these with "_____."
- 6 -- I have generally NOT indexed or downloaded the columns which contain no names, such as church announcements.

SHILKRET'S ASSISTANT WAS INFANT PRODIGY

Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the orchestra in Chesterfield's "Music That Satisfies" hour, has, as assistant conductor, his brother, Jack. Jack was an infant prodigy, having been an excellent pianist at the age of five; two years later he played professionally with another brother, Harry. At ten, Jack secured his first solo professional engagement, at $7.00 per week, as part time pianist at a resort hotel.

He joined the musicians' union when only 16 and played as a substitute at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York for several years. Then he turned his attention to dance and so great was his success that, under the guidance of his brother, Nat, he soon won public recognition, conducting an orchestra at such resorts as the Little Club and Pelham Heath Inn.

In 1926 Nat called him to the Victor Talking Machine Company, of which he was a musical director, and teamed him with Milton Rettenberg at two pianos. In this capacity he is heard six nights a week in the Chesterfield program over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Died

Mrs. Melinda Ross died yester-where she had been placed by those whom she had faithfully served when she was needed.

Melinda as we called her was kind industrious and loyal.

She worked for the late Mr.
and Mrs. George W. Welsh for fifty seven years. The Welsh family appreciated her worth to them and in her last days of illness when she could not think for herself this fine family of Welsh descendants did all that could be done for her. The colored friends of Melinda do gratefully appreciate all that her White friends did to make her last days comfortable.

Melinda leaves an example worthy of emulation by her honesty and industry.

She was most generous to all who were in need and contributed regularly to her church.

She was friendly to every one.
Her friends are numbered by her acquaintances.

Truly a fine character has gone into great beyond.

Peace be unto her ashes.

her well and loved her.

In short, will we ever succeed in re-establishing pre-war capitalist-employee-customer arithmetic?

And then, tariffs?

I've always been a free-trader, but these readjustments can be pretty disorganizing when decidedly sudden.

Market speculators, it appears, are suspicious that olden times are gone forever. Just what's ahead they're leery of. Their impression is that our hitherto modern democracies will be involved, as well as our modern despotism, such as Russia, for instance.

One question is—

What's it desirable for a man to work at?—not from his own selfish standpoint but from the standpoint of his community.

The query arises in connection with the issue of the chap's deferment from military service. Will he do more good at home than in uniform? Suppose he's a dairy hand. How much of a dairy hand, though? One cow? One isn't enough to defer him. How many, then? Director Lewis B. Hershey's selective service system has been getting out a questionnaire on this subject, to employing dairymen.

Cows and the Army

How does one cow compare, for usefulness, with how much military service? Then multiply the cows, and, subtracting the total from military service, see what the answer is. Maybe the result's the other way. Perhaps the cows are in a majority.

Yet a cow doesn't yield milk exclusively. It can be killed and eaten. Which form's preferable?—lacteal fluid or beefsteak?

Another item enters into the problem—

Cows aren't exclusively milkers or directly edible.

delicious supper Tuesday evening in the dining room to the South District Association members.
